Idox partnership to deliver election e-Counting solution to Scottish Government

Idox (AIM: IDOX), a leading supplier of specialist information management software and solutions, today announces a contract with the Scottish Government and Scottish Local Authorities, to deliver the electronic counting of ballot papers for the scheduled Local Authority elections in 2022 and future Scottish elections.

Working in partnership with Fujitsu and Elite Training, the five-year contract, won under open tender, will see Idox provide e-Counting election support for the Scottish Government and Scottish Local Authorities for the third consecutive time, having been selected to provide software and print management services in the 2016 and 2017 Scottish Local Government elections.

David Meaden, Chief Executive Officer of Idox said:

"Our strategic partnership with Fujitsu and Elite Training provides a market-leading e-Counting solution that will help drive efficiency and improve the Scottish elections' process. The contract marks an important win for Idox, showcasing our full capabilities in electoral services whilst improving our revenue visibility for FY21 and beyond."
